

New Local Alert Level Resources

The Prime Minister has recently introduced a three-tiered system of local COVID alert levels in England.

These levels comprise of medium, high and very high risk, setting out information for local authorities, residents and workers about what to do and how to manage the outbreak in their area.

To help support this, HM Government has developed new resources for all tiers. This includes co-branded and adaptable materials to be tailored to your area:

Translated Resources

To help reach communities where English is not the first language, we have developed new translated materials in a variety of languages. These materials can help members of the public understand current guidance, outlined by HM Government:
